BofA Insights into HIV Market Trends – February '24 Edition

Industry Overview

HIV TRx up +4% mo/mo and +3% y/y in January

IQVIA scripts for January are now available, and we continue to provide analyses and insights into demand and share trends in the US HIV market. Overall, January HIV TRx increased mo/mo (+4%) and showed a smaller increase y/y (+3%), after a weak December total HIV TRx (-1% mo/mo; -2% y/y). 2024 HIV TRx grew +3% y/y compared to 2023, indicating the continued recovery from pandemic headwinds (Exhibit 2).

Gilead in recovery, TRx growth likely low single digits

Gilead January TRx were up +4% mo/mo and up +8% y/y due to seasonality and monthly variation (December: -1% mo/mo; +2% y/y), and 2024 TRx were up +8% y/y, driven primarily by TRx growth from Biktarvy and Descovy (Exhibit 5). Indeed, both Biktarvy (4Q23: -$62M vs. cons; 7% y/y) had respectable 4Q sales while Descovy slightly underperformed and Descovy (4Q23: -$32M vs. cons; -5% y/y) (see our thoughts on 4Q23 earnings), though both had solid y/y TRx growth (+8% y/y and +6% y/y respectively) in January. Competitor GSK/ViiV (covered by Graham Parry and Sachin Jain) saw a similar increase (+5% mo/mo, +4% y/y), and we note that its launches of LAIs Cabenuva and Apretude still need time to reach an inflection point (Exhibit 7). Ultimately, we expect the HIV market continues to recover and Gilead to hold the majority of total HIV TRx share (53%). That said, we expect script growth to be in the low single digits in 1Q24E (+3%, Exhibit 1). Maintain Buy and $95 PO.

Post-pandemic TRx recovery underway

We define the HIV landscape broadly using IQVIA's Uniform System of Classification (USC3 #82100) which includes a portfolio of more than 75 products. (We also note that we have assumed the distribution of scripts throughout a given week is equal). In order to forecast 1Q24E TRx volumes, we calculated y/y TRx growth rate for the start of the quarter and assumed the same growth rate in 1Q24. While Gilead enjoyed double-digit y/y TRx growth pre-pandemic, COVID caused a reduction in TRx counts, with y/y growth only becoming positive again in 1Q22. That said, y/y growth for Gilead lagged Total HIV TRx, which returned to positive growth much faster (3Q21) largely due to the launch of generic Truvada (emtricitabine/TDF) in PrEP.

Gilead holding onto market share

We project Gilead's share of TRx to grow to 55% (from 60% peak in 3Q20) in 1Q24 based on monthly script volumes. We forecast GSK/ViiV's market share at 16% in 4Q23, down from 18% in 2Q18. Generics continue to gain market share however, primarily driven by generic Truvada for PrEP (emtricitabine/TDF), and we forecast generics will make up 24% of all HIV TRx by the end of 1Q24.

TRx growth needed to drive upside

Looking to Gilead's US HIV revenues, pre-pandemic growth was primarily fueled by double-digit y/y growth in TRx volumes. In 2023, TRx growth y/y was modest (+2%), with the bulk of the +7% y/y US revenue growth coming from a +5% y/y increase in $/TRx caused by favorable pricing mix. Gilead indicated that they expect HIV sales to grow 4% in 2024, with much of the growth driven by uptake rather than pricing.

BofA GLOBAL RESEARCH

Gilead TRx growth driven by Biktarvy and Descovy

Growth of Gilead's HIV TRx has been driven by Biktarvy (4Q23: -$62m vs. cons; +7% y/y) and Descovy (4Q23: -$32M vs. cons; -5% y/y) (see our thoughts on 4Q23 earnings), with both showing positive y/y TRx growth (+8% and +6% respectively) in January. Indeed, we forecast Biktarvy (+8%) and Descovy (+6%) to also grow TRx volumes y/y in 1Q24E as well based their growth trends in 2024 y/y, offsetting TRx declines in the rest of the portfolio. We forecast Gilead's total 1Q24E TRx growth to be +8% y/y, supporting our view that the HIV franchise has recovered from headwinds from the pandemic and generic launches, but y/y TRx growth will likely be in the low single digits going forward. That said, management noted that HIV sales are expected to decline 12% sequentially in 1Q24 due to patient co-pay and deductible dynamics. We expect full year HIV revenue to increase 6% y/y in 2024.

Branded PrEP TRx still growing despite generics

Even while generic Truvada (emtricitabine/TDF) has experienced rapid adoption since its launch, both Apretude and Descovy continued to experience y/y TRx growth in January (+154% and +6% respectively). This makes sense to us as our KOLs have indicated that the use of PrEP has been increasing due to broader education efforts, growing the total market. Indeed, emtricitabine/TDF TRx have rapidly approached similar volumes to Descovy TRx, but we suspect Descovy will still enjoy the highest TRx share in the near-term due to concerns surrounding the longer-term impacts to kidney function of emtricitabine/TDF. Apretude TRx are also growing rapidly, but TRx volumes are still relatively low and will take time to meaningfully grow.

Exhibit 6: Descovy still leading in PrEP TRx, but generic Truvada (emtricitabine/TDF) catching up

Apretude launch has been robust, but still only accounts for modest TRx volume

BofA GLOBAL RESEARCH

LAI still looking for footing

While some investors have cited Cabenuva as a potential competitive threat to Biktarvy due to the convenience of every two-month dosing, we see minimal cause for near-term concern based on Cabenuva's TRx launch trajectory. Indeed, our KOLs have noted that despite the dosing convenience, tolerability issues associated with Cabenuva's intramuscular injection may limit patient switching. Turning to PrEP, Apretude also still has modest TRx volumes compared to the launch of Descovy in PrEP, but we note only a qualitative comparison of launch trajectory based on differences in dosing frequency.

Exhibit 7: Launches of LAIs (Cabenuva, Apretude) have not been as robust as daily orals (Biktarvy, Descovy)

Price objective basis & risk

Gilead Sciences Inc. (GILD, B-1-7, $72.70)

Our $95 price objective is based on a sum-of-the parts net present value (NPV) analysis. We forecast sales of key franchises or products to 2030 using a weighted average cost of capital (WACC) of 8%, and include a terminal value where appropriate. Under these assumptions, we value the HIV franchise at $80/share, HCV and HDV at $7/share, the Kite platform at $8/share, remdesivir at $2/share, Trodelvy at $9/share, with the pipeline at $5/share and net cash at -$15/share.

Upside risks: 1) stronger-than-expected sales of Biktarvy in HIV and faster uptake of Descovy in PrEP, 2) greater durability of HCV revenues, 3) rapid uptake of Kite, 4) and success of the oncology pipeline may lead investors to assign further value to these programs.

Downside risks: 1) moderating sales of Biktarvy, Genvoya, Odefsey, and Descovy due to competition, which may include long-acting injectable formulations, 2) greater than expected erosion of HCV revenues, 3) limited upside from Gilead's CAR-Ts, 4) the oncology pipeline may have limited clinical success or be meaningfully delayed.

BofA ESGMeter Methodology:

ESGMeter is a proprietary metric based on quantitative analysis and fundamental analyst inputs that reflects our assessment of a company's Environmental, Social and Governance-related attributes. The ESGMeter is intended to indicate a company's likelihood of experiencing stronger financial stability (higher return on equity and lower earnings and price volatility) over the next three years relative to peer group. There are three ESGMeter levels - Low, Medium, and High - which indicate whether a company has attributes most likely to translate into superior financial stability (in the case of a High level) or weaker financial stability (in the case of a Low level) over the next three years relative to its peer group. A Medium level suggests that a company exhibits ESG characteristics that are likely associated with financial stability results in line with its peer group over the next three years. Full details of our methodology, financial stability definition and disclaimers are available at BofA ESGMeter methodology. ESGMeter is not indicative of a company's future stock price performance and is not an investment recommendation or rating.

ESGMeter is independent of the BofA Global Research fundamental equity analyst's investment rating, volatility risk rating, income rating or price objective for that company.
