OXY 8K trims estimates on transitory GoM production. Berkshire now owns 34%

Reiterate Rating: BUY | PO: 80.00 USD | Price: 56.80 USD

8K update trims 4Q23 estimates

In what is now a pre-quarter pattern of disclosure, Occidental pre-announced realized oil, gas and NGL prices along with any material difference in production versus guidance provided in the prior quarter. For 4Q23, OXY calls out GoM production at 127,000 boepd vs prior guidance of 152,000 – 158,000 boepd as a consequence of a pipeline outage at the 3rd party operated Main Pass Oil Gathering (MPOG) system, temporarily halting some operations. Production is expected to restart in the coming weeks. Management also expects total company oil & gas production to remain within prior guidance of 1.206 – 1.246 mm boepd due to ‘outstanding operating performance’, although this comes with a slightly lower oil cut (51.7% vs 52.5% guidance), higher domestic opex ($10.96/boe vs $10.50/boe & higher tax rate (32% - 33% vs 30% guidance). Realized NGL & natural gas prices as a % of benchmarks look essentially flat vs 3Q23. On balance we expect solid production to be a function of higher international gas (higher tax, lower total oil cut) with the net impact of disclosure reducing our 4Q23 estimates from $0.86 to $0.69/sh.

The bigger news may be that BH now owns 34%

In a separate filing, OXY disclosed in a 13G filing that Berkshire Hathaway now has a passive holding of 34% of the outstanding fully diluted shares. Recall that BH had previously received SEC permission to increase its holding to 50% on a passive basis, with no triggering obligation to acquire the balance of the outstanding shares. The implications of how this plays out in regards to BH's long term holding is hard to predict: but for the time being we see a BH strategy that appears to increase its holding into commodity weakness, arguably a unique aspect of the investment outlook versus peers. & perhaps imputing incremental support for OXY shares in a volatile commodity outlook.

Transitory issues impact 4Q; not the investment case

With the temporary loss of high margin, oil weighted GoM production we see no material impact on OXY's investment outlook. On the contrary with a step change in domestic production coming from the recently announced CrownRock acquisition we see 2024 starting with momentum behind both US & international output with pending closure of the deal expected in 1Q24 that will kick start non-core disposals with low associated cashflow and reinforcing another step change in OXY's capacity to reduce debt. In a backward oil curve, we continue to believe the associated transfer of value from debt to equity differentiates its investment case versus peers. Reiterate Buy.

Price objective basis & risk

Occidental Petroleum Corp. (OXY)

Our price objective of $80/sh assumes $75 Brent and $70 WTI long-term. We assume long-term HH natural gas of $4.00. We apply a long-term (post-tax) weighted average cost of capital (WACC) of 7.9%, which is based on the BofA strategy team's assumed risk premium and a five-year monthly beta.

Downside risks to our price objective are (1) the oil and gas price and margin environment, (2) significant delays to the new upstream projects critical to its production targets, and (3) inability to capture the price environment due to cost pressures (opex, capex, and taxation).

Upside risks to our price objective are higher oil & gas prices.

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). Our investment ratings are: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. An investment rating of 6 (No Rating) indicates that a stock is no longer trading on the basis of fundamentals. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

BofA ESGMeter Methodology:

ESGMeter is a proprietary metric based on quantitative analysis and fundamental analyst inputs that reflects our assessment of a company's Environmental, Social and Governance-related attributes. The ESGMeter is intended to indicate a company's likelihood of experiencing stronger financial stability (higher return on equity and lower earnings and price volatility) over the next three years relative to peer group. There are three ESGMeter levels - Low, Medium, and High - which indicate whether a company has attributes most likely to translate into superior financial stability (in the case of a High level) or weaker financial stability (in the case of a Low level) over the next three years relative to its peer group. A Medium level suggests that a company exhibits ESG characteristics that are likely associated with financial stability results in line with its peer group over the next three years. Full details of our methodology, financial stability definition and disclaimers are available at BofA ESGMeter methodology. ESGMeter is not indicative of a company's future stock price performance and is not an investment recommendation or rating. ESGMeter is independent of the BofA Global Research fundamental equity analyst's investment rating, volatility risk rating, income rating or price objective for that company.
