Gold expert call: Price at USD2-2.5k/oz in '24; M&As to continue

Industry Overview

USD2,000/oz as price support level in '24

We hosted Mr. Heqing Shi from Antaiko to discuss 2024 China gold market outlook. Gold price hiked to historically high, which was over USD2,100/oz, in December 2023. The Fed's potential rates cut, central bank gold purchase, and black swan issues are main factors that influence gold price. Mr. Shi expects gold price to keep hiking and to fluctuate between USD2,000-2,500/oz in '24, as he believes 1) US rates is estimated to cut 75bp to 4.6% by YE24 and gold price is negatively correlated to US rates; 2) geopolitical conflicts in Mid East and East Europe haven't subsided yet and upcoming US election may raise further global uncertainties which could push up gold price; 3) central banks globally may keep purchasing gold since economic recession is ongoing, and thus, gold demand will keep going up, as well as gold price.

Global gold S-D balance; increasing China demand

Overall, there was 4,756t gold supply globally in '22, including 3,612t mined gold (76%) and 1,144t recycled gold (24%). Global gold demand was also close to supply at 4,741t, among which gold jewelry consumption took 2,190t (46%), central bank purchase took 1,134t (24%), gold investment consumed 1,107t (23%) and industrial usage took 309t (7%). China produced 519t gold in '23, vs. 498t in '22, +4% yoy. Mined gold production increased from 297t in '22 to 301t in '23, +1.5% yoy. China gold consumption climbed up by 9% yoy from 1,002t in '22 to 1,090t in '23. Investment demand increased most in China from 259t in '22 to 300t in '23, +16% yoy, followed by gold jewelry, which consumed 706t in '23, +8% yoy. However, industrial gold usage dropped from 88t in '22 to 84t in '23, -6% yoy. Meanwhile, China central bank purchased 225t gold in '23 vs. 62t in '22, +261% yoy.

Overseas and domestic M&As to continue

China has become the largest gold producer for 15 years, with 15,798t gold resource by YE22, mainly concentrates in provinces such as Shandong, Gansu and Yunnan. However, mine grade in China is not as competitive as some overseas mines since some big mines are aged already and there're concerns of production suspension caused by mine safety and ESG issue. Those are the reasons that some Chinese gold firms are actively explore overseas M&A opportunities, especially in Africa and South America. Mr. Shi estimates that countries in stable political situation and good relationship with China government are main concerns that Chinese companies go overseas. Domestically, M&As are also happening for economies of scale. Per Mr. Shi, province-level mine integration will be the main trend of domestic M&A especially for SOEs, while for large scale companies, cross region M&As are also options to increase M/S.
