Ansys acquisition strategically enhances EDA position but carries regulatory risk

Maintain Rating: BUY | PO: 650.00 USD | Price: 494.40 USD

SNPS announces ANSS M&A, views remain mixed

We follow up reports on the SNPS-ANSS merger (see initial takeaways, accretion scenario analysis) after a joint company call where Synopsis confirmed its acquisition of Ansys. SNPS plans to acquire ANSS for ~$35bn (based on SNPS' share price as of December 21), equating to just under $400/share, the lower end of our initial expectations. We see the strategic rationale, as ANSS' multi-physics expertise would better position SNPS to expand EDA penetration across more customers (new access to ANSS clients), support leading-edge digital chip design trends (multi-die/chiplets), and add attractive/ sustainable system design opportunities in growing markets (autos, aerospace/defense, etc.) competitive with CDNS. Still, we remain cautious on regulatory scrutiny given US/China trade tensions, with SNPS' closing target (1H25) suggesting an extended review process. Even outside the deal itself, growing focus from regulators adds risk of additional government shipment restrictions on the entire EDA industry, in our view. While no two transactions are the same, we note that the most recent comparable industry M&A – AVGO acquiring VMW – took about 18 months to close following extensive China review.

SNPS-ANSS combo: $28bn TAM, double-digit sales growth

Key incremental takeaways from the call: 1) The SNPS-ANSS combined entity would address $28bn TAM ($11bn core EDA, $7bn IP, $10bn ANSS simulation/analysis), growing at 11% CAGR, which the company plans to outgrow. 2) The combo would be expected to generate $400mn in cost synergies over next 3 years (though prior semis M&A have seen synergy realization targets achieved earlier than expected) and $400mn in revenue synergies over 4 years (and $1bn+ long term). 3) The long-term operating margin target is in the mid-40s versus the high-30s today, comparable to CDNS today (which trades at a 4x-5x NTM PE premium). 4) The transaction is expected to close sometime in 1H25, though we expect some risk related to US/China authorities. 5) No updates were provided on SNPS' plans for the lower-margin SIG (software integrity) business, though we still see the possibility of divestment.

Expected to be accretive 2 years post close, but upside to targets

SNPS plans to finance the transaction with $19bn in cash/debt consideration (~$16bn in committed financing) as well as issue 0.345 of SNPS stock per ANSS share. Net net, assuming ~5%-6% interest rate, we expect the acquisition to be ~1%-2% dilutive in the next 12 months post close, though ~1%-2% accretive thereafter. We note possible upside to targets such as revenue synergy (medium-term revenue synergies set at just 4%-5% of combined company sales) or sale of SNPS' SIG business ($5bn-$5.5bn potential value unlock at 9x-10x sales, which could drive 5%-10% EPS accretion).

China/regulatory risks possible overhang until close

Though we see paths to accretion, regulatory risks could remain an overhang on SNPS (and CDNS). Indeed, recent US DoC restrictions impacted ANSS (potential $35-$55mn drag on ACV growth in 2024E), and despite no impacts to SNPS/CDNS, there could be scrutiny going forward. SNPS/CDNS derive ~15% of sales from China, though it has grown at a 25%-30% 3-year CAGR for each (versus ~15% CAGR for the rest of the business). SNPS may see higher risk given ANSS' defense exposure + integration execution. We maintain our Buy rating on SNPS' highly recurring revenue model and leverage to resilient R&D spend.

Synopsys (SNPS)

Our $650 PO is based on 40x 2025E P/E, at upper end of company's historical trading range (19x-49x), justified in our view as EDA investment accelerates as chip complexity rises.

Downside risks are (1) variability in IP/hardware sales creates issues in timing of revenue recognition, (2) competitors develop unique software capabilities displacing SNPS at core customers, (3) heightened geopolitical tensions lead to further restrictions on supplying firms in China with EDA technology.

Upside risks are (1) share gains in existing markets versus primary competitors, (2) increased government investment in semiconductor R&D and development as nations develop internal ecosystems, (3) material M&A that enables consistent margin expansion or further accelerates sales CAGR, (4) faster-than-expected cost improvements driving higher operating margin.

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). Our investment ratings are: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. An investment rating of 6 (No Rating) indicates that a stock is no longer trading on the basis of fundamentals. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

BofA ESGMeter Methodology:

ESGMeter is a proprietary metric based on quantitative analysis and fundamental analyst inputs that reflects our assessment of a company's Environmental, Social and Governance-related attributes. The ESGMeter is intended to indicate a company's likelihood of experiencing stronger financial stability (higher return on equity and lower earnings and price volatility) over the next three years relative to peer group. There are three ESGMeter levels - Low, Medium, and High - which indicate whether a company has attributes most likely to translate into superior financial stability (in the case of a High level) or weaker financial stability (in the case of a Low level) over the next three years relative to its peer group. A Medium level suggests that a company exhibits ESG characteristics that are likely associated with financial stability results in line with its peer group over the next three years. Full details of our methodology, financial stability definition and disclaimers are available at BofA ESGMeter methodology. ESGMeter is not indicative of a company's future stock price performance and is not an investment recommendation or rating.
