Screen Changes

The following changes to our Growth 10 screen

BofA vs. Consensus EPS Surprise rating fell below 5 for T-Mobile US, Inc. (TMUS) and United Rentals, Inc. (URI). They will be replaced by Universal Health Services, Inc. (UHS) and Progressive Corporation (PGR).

The following changes to our Value 10 screen

BofA vs. Consensus EPS Surprise rating fell below 5 for T-Mobile US, Inc. (TMUS) and United Rentals, Inc. (URI). They will be replaced by Ameriprise Financial, Inc. (AMP) and Entergy Corporation (ETR).

Methodology

In October 1999, we introduced the "Growth 10" and "Value 10" screens. The screens are quantitatively generated and are based on our proprietary BofA vs. Consensus Earnings Surprise Model plus three additional screening criteria. The universe we use is the S&P 500.

As their names imply, the Growth 10 screen includes the ten highest ranking growth stocks according to our screening methodology, while the Value 10 screen includes the ten highest ranking value stocks according to our screening methodology. A review of the screening criteria used to formulate these screens is below. For the Growth 10 screen, if one of the four removal criteria is triggered, the stock is replaced by one that satisfies the first three inclusion criteria and has highest 5-Year Projected EPS growth rate. For the Value 10 screen, the stock is replaced by one that satisfies the first three inclusion criteria and has lowest trailing 12-Month P/E.

Note that no changes are made to the screens after the 15th of a month, with new additions/deletions then being added at the beginning of the following month. The Growth 10 and Value 10 screens are not diversified screens, and thus, should be considered only within the context of a well-diversified investment strategy.

BofA GLOBAL RESEARCH

Performance Calculation Methodology

The Growth 10 and Value 10 are computed on a daily total return basis. All additions and deletions to the screens are priced as of the market close on the business day following the date that the recommendation was published in a BofA Global Research report. Performance data also assumes reinvestment of gross dividends into the dividend paying security on the ex-dividend date, priced as of the close of that day.

At inception, each stock entered the screen with an assumed investment of $100. With 10 stocks at inception, Growth 10 had an assumed value of $1000. The screen is re-balanced to maintain an equal weighting in each stock at the beginning of each month as of the market close on the business day following the date that the recommendation was published in a BofA research report. Between rebalancing dates, stock value fluctuates based on its total return. Mid-month changes are made if any of the stocks meet the sell criteria established for that screen. The value of each added constituent is equal to the average value of the constituents being removed on the date of the replacement.

The performance results of individuals following these screens will differ from the performance contained in this report for a variety of reasons. There are differences related to incurring transactions costs and/or other fees and expenses (e.g. advisory fees) as well as the time and price that stocks were acquired. The performance results of individuals following the screens will also differ based on differences in treatment of dividends received, including the amount received and whether such dividends were reinvested. Dividends are not paid to investors until the dividend payment date, which is not the same as the ex-dividend date. In addition, no assurance can be given about the future performance of the Growth 10 and Value 10. The performance does not reflect transaction costs or tax withholdings or any applicable advisory fees. Had these costs been reflected, the performance would have been lower.

Past performance should not and cannot be viewed as an indicator of future performance. A complete performance record is available on request.

Advances & Declines

Advances and declines are based on the total returns of each stock for each relevant period. The screen rebalancing done each month constitutes the start of a new period for each stock in the screen, and if a stock change is made between rebalancing dates, then the performance period for the stock being removed will end when the stock is removed from the screen. For the stock being added, the performance period will begin the day it is added to the screen.
