Full activity recovery on track by mid-Mar
but demand still weaker yoy on high base

Industry Overview

Recovery in line and GD/GX cement price hikes

We hosted a channel check call with Digital Cement's Senior Analyst Xiaoliang Wang on post Chinese New Year (CNY) construction recovery. Cement shipment ratio appears to be weaker yoy, from 3% lower yoy in the first week and declining to 10% lower yoy in the third week, but this could be explained by intensive demand release last year carried over from the COVID lockdown. These data would be comparable to 2019 or 2022 levels, and even slightly higher than 2020 readings. The percentage of labor returning to work has been similar to last year as well, but funding tightness is the primary limiting factor for municipal infrastructure construction and concrete stations. Wang thinks a full recovery would likely be attained by mid-March and cement shipment ratio should reach a flattish yoy level by April as the wave of intensive demand release briefly faded last year. Cement price trends have been mixed and only Guangdong (GD) and Guangxi (GX) have successfully implemented price hikes since producers had halted in advance of holidays preventing inventory buildup, while some regions resorted to cutting prices on inventory pressure, with clinker levels reaching 80%+ in key regions.

Infra halts cutting 2024 demand to -6% yoy

12 provinces have been ordered to cut back infra investment, but the magnitude varies. In GX, all new starts and those currently in progress with <20% completion have been called off. In Guizhou, the impact has been wider, and construction-in-progress appears to have slowed down. In Chongqing, although new starts have been reduced, some were given the green light to proceed. Collectively, highways and railways seem to be affected more, while electricity/water/shanty town upgrades appear to be relatively immune. Wang now expects 2024 demand weakness to deteriorate, from down 2-3% previously to up to 6% decline.

Low profit in 2023 and dimmed margin outlook in 2024

Nationally, the cement industry aggregated RMB32bn total pre-tax profit in 2023. Stripping out contribution from concrete and aggregates, Wang expects profit from cement to be lower than the last cycle trough in 2015. GP/t (Gross Profit per ton) for leading producers is currently ranging RMB40-50/t and this may improve only mildly when demand ramps up. Still, both Yangtze River Delta and Peral River Delta regions are likely to experience increasingly fierce competition with greater margin drop, especially as CR Cement now appears determined to gain market share at the expense of profitability. Regions deemed less favorable in the past like Northern China could be seeing milder deterioration, since producers are more willing to defend margin instead of competing with aggressive pricing. Xinjiang sets a good example of maintaining industry margin when market capacity utilization rate is merely 35%, but replicating such optimal outcomes elsewhere might not be feasible without enduring a cold winter first. Separately, according to Wang, leading producers are still interested in consolidating the markets and acquiring quality assets, but this might not take place until 2025 since buyers see fair valuation only at RMB300/t for clinker, notably lower than the current asking prices.

Important Disclosures

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). Our investment ratings are: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. An investment rating of 6 (No Rating) indicates that a stock is no longer trading on the basis of fundamentals. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

Investment rating	Total return expectation (within 12-month period of date of initial rating)	Ratings dispersion guidelines for coverage cluster ^{R1}
Buy	≥ 10%	≤ 70%
Neutral	≥ 0%	≤ 30%
Underperform	N/A	≥ 20%

^{R1} Ratings dispersions may vary from time to time where BofA Global Research believes it better reflects the investment prospects of stocks in a Coverage Cluster.

INCOME RATINGS, indicators of potential cash dividends, are: 7 - same/higher (dividend considered to be secure), 8 - same/lower (dividend not considered to be secure) and 9 - pays no cash dividend. Coverage Cluster is comprised of stocks covered by a single analyst or two or more analysts sharing a common industry, sector, region or other classification(s). A stock's coverage cluster is included in the most recent BofA Global Research report referencing the stock.

BofA Global Research personnel (including the analyst(s) responsible for this report) receive compensation based upon, among other factors, the overall profitability of Bank of America Corporation, including profits derived from investment banking.
