Working towards profitability through 2024

Working towards profitability through 2024

JBLU's 2024 growth plans remain constrained as an average of 11 aircraft are expected to be out of service throughout the year for GTF (geared turbo fan) engine repairs, which is pressuring unit costs. As we noted in our downgrade note earlier this month, we expected unit costs to be an area of challenge as JBLU has historically needed to grow mid- to high-single digits to maintain flat unit costs. As a result, JBLU has instituted cost savings and revenue initiative plans this year to help drive the airline back closer to profitability. With 2024E EBITDAR still 35% below 2019, we reiterate our Underperform rating.

Tough cost environment to continue until capacity returns

JBLU guided 1Q24 unit costs +9-11%, largely in line with our +9.4% estimate, with mid- to high-single digit cost growth for the year (our prior forecast was +6% vs our new forecast +8.8%). The guidance includes $175-200M in run-rate cost reductions through the end of the year plus $75M of savings from the fleet modernization program. Unit costs should remain elevated until JBLU can return to mid-single-digit capacity growth, a target that could be possible in 2025 depending on further GTF engine headwinds.

Revenues are improving, but not enough to offset costs

JBLU guided 1Q24 total revenues down -9% to -5%, implying unit revenues down low-single digits compared to -7% in 4Q23 as peak demand remains robust. Unit revenues should accelerate through the year due to $300M of revenue initiatives (largely ancillary related), resulting in flattish total revenues in 2024, implying unit revenues up low-single digits. While unit revenues could inflect in 2H24 (up mid- to high-single digits based on our forecasts), it would not be enough to offset the higher costs mentioned above.

We estimate JBLU returns to more steady profits by 2H25

JBLU anticipates operating margins approaching breakeven this year, in line with our estimates. However, with $325M of interest expense, we still do not expect JBLU to return to profitability in 2024 (we forecast $(0.30) in EPS) and estimate JBLU will return to more steady profits later in 2025. Despite this earnings trajectory, we do not expect much change in JBLU's liquidity, given the ability to finance aircraft, and expect the company to be able to address its 2026 convert maturity given more than $10B of unencumbered assets. Our $3 price objective is unchanged and continues to be based on approximately 5.0x our 2024E EBITDAR.

Company Sector

Airlines

Company Description

Headquartered in New York, JetBlue is a point-to-point airline that serves 100 destinations in the U.S., the Caribbean and Latin America, and between New York and London. The majority of its routes touch at least one of its six focus cities: New York, Boston, Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood, Orlando, Los Angeles, and San Juan, Puerto Rico. JBLU is not a member of any of the three major airline alliances but has commercial partnerships with 47 airlines, including American in New York and Boston.

Investment Rationale

JBLU is pressured by a tough domestic capacity environment and GTF engine issues impacting growth and cost plans. Execution risks related to the Spirit merger are a further challenge should the deal obtain the judge's approval after an antitrust lawsuit by the Department of Justice.

Price objective basis & risk

JetBlue Airways (JBLU)

Our $3 PO is based on approximately 5.0x our 2024E EBITDAR. We believe a discount to its long-term historical multiple of 6.0x is justified given the domestic fundamental backdrop and deal risks.

Upside risks to our price objective are better than expected pricing, a faster than expected resolution of labor contracts, and a stronger macro backdrop.

Downside risks to our price objective are higher fuel prices, general economic weakness, government regulation/taxes, safety concerns, and terrorism/geopolitical events.

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). Our investment ratings are: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. An investment rating of 6 (No Rating) indicates that a stock is no longer trading on the basis of fundamentals. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

| Investment rating | Total return expectation (within 12-month period of date of initial rating) | Ratings dispersion guidelines for coverage cluster ^{R2} |
|-------------------|---|--|
| Buy | ≥ 10% | ≤ 70% |
| Neutral | ≥ 0% | ≤ 30% |
| Underperform | N/A | ≥ 20% |

^{R2} Ratings dispersions may vary from time to time where BofA Global Research believes it better reflects the investment prospects of stocks in a Coverage Cluster.

INCOME RATINGS, indicators of potential cash dividends, are: 7 - same/higher (dividend considered to be secure), 8 - same/lower (dividend not considered to be secure) and 9 - pays no cash dividend. Coverage Cluster is comprised of stocks covered by a single analyst or two or more analysts sharing a common industry, sector, region or other classification(s). A stock's coverage cluster is included in the most recent BofA Global Research report referencing the stock.

BofA ESGMeter Methodology:

ESGMeter is a proprietary metric based on quantitative analysis and fundamental analyst inputs that reflects our assessment of a company's Environmental, Social and Governance-related attributes. The ESGMeter is intended to indicate a company's likelihood of experiencing stronger financial stability (higher return on equity and lower earnings and price volatility) over the next three years relative to peer group. There are three ESGMeter levels - Low, Medium, and High - which indicate whether a company has attributes most likely to translate into superior financial stability (in the case of a High level) or weaker financial stability (in the case of a Low level) over the next three years relative to its peer group. A Medium level suggests that a company exhibits ESG characteristics that are likely associated with financial stability results in line with its peer group over the next three years. Full details of our methodology, financial stability definition and disclaimers are available at BofA ESGMeter methodology. ESGMeter is not indicative of a company's future stock price performance and is not an investment recommendation or rating.

ESGMeter is independent of the BofA Global Research fundamental equity analyst's investment rating, volatility risk rating, income rating or price objective for that company.
