F4Q Preview: Expect comps to inflect in 2Q24, see LT share gain opportunities; Buy

Reiterate Rating: BUY | PO: 160.00 USD | Price: 152.92 USD

Expect sales to remain challenged in 4Q

TGT will report F4Q24 (C4Q23) on Tuesday, March 5th. Our model assumes a comparable sales decline of (5%), in-line with (4.9%) reported in 3Q as we expect moderating food & bev inflation (see Tracking Food at Home Inflation) and continued soft discretionary trends to offset improving (but still negative) traffic supported by strategic & merchandising initiatives.

We expect a return to y/y comp growth in 2Q24

While near-term sales remain challenged, we believe investors may look through recent pressure to a potential inflection, which we believe TGT may see in C2Q24. TGT has easier comparisons beginning in 2Q as it laps depressed traffic from last year's pride month controversy. We believe customer perception has improved from these trough levels, as evidenced by the notable rebound in Morning Consult's net purchase consideration and net favorability data (see Exhibit 9 and Exhibit 10).

See continued upside to Gross Margin in 4Q and into 2024

Our Gross Margin (GM) forecast is ahead of the street in both 4Q23 and for the full year 2024 as we continue to see upside opportunities from: 1) freight & transportation cost recovery, 2) potential mix tailwinds as lower-margin electronics have underperformed higher-margin discretionary categories & beauty, 3) the rollout & ramp up of flow & sortation centers, and 4) lower clearance levels & other efficiencies provided by leaner inventory levels.

Merchandising initiatives support improving value prop

While TGT's comparable sales & traffic have underperformed large broadline retail peers (incl. WMT & COST), we believe the company's recent merchandising initiatives and new private label brand launches (including Figmint & Dealworthy) should improve its value perception with customers and support traffic & share gains going forward.

Improving near-term & LT trends support stock; Buy

We reiterate our Buy & $160 PO, 17-18x our F2025E EPS of $9.15. While near-term sales remain pressured, we continue to expect GM expansion in F25/C24 and sequential traffic improvements driven by easing comparisons & the expected success of TGT's merchandising initiatives.

Supermarkets/Food Retailers

Company Description

Target Corporation is one of the largest discount retailers in the US, operating roughly 1,900 Target stores across the US. The company sells merchandise in its Signature Categories Style, Baby, Kids and Wellness as well as other products in both physical Target stores and online at Target.com.

Investment Rationale

We rate TGT shares Buy as we see several catalysts to support improving traffic comps into F4Q from current depressed levels, gross margin upside opportunities, and merchandising initiatives & improved inventory positioning which should support better sales trends into F25.

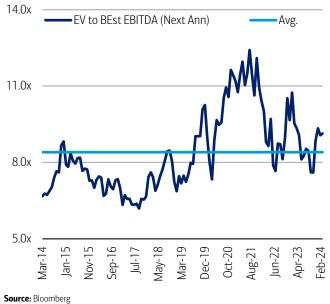

Exhibit 15: We believe investor sentiment remains mixed between TGT bulls & bears and outline key arguments on both sides of the debate TGT Bull/Bear case summary

Category	Bull	Bear
Top-line / Same-Store Sales	We forecast a positive inflection in comps in 2Q24 as TGT laps easier comparisons from its pride month controversy LY. In addition, while inventory remains lean, TGT has seen improvements in in-stock levels y/y. The rollout of Starbucks and returns to TGT's Drive Up service should also support continued growth in same-day services (which are more profitable than traditional brown-box e-commerce).	Food & Beverage sales could continue to face pressure from decelerating food inflation, as food at home CPI decelerated in January for the 17 th consecutive month (see Tracking Food at Home Inflation). Ticket could also see pressure from increasing penetration of opening price point items with new value-focused brand launches (e.g. Figmint, Dealworthy).
Gross Margin	Our Gross Margin (GM) forecast is ahead of the street in both 4Q23 and for the full year 2024 as we continue to see upside opportunities from: 1) freight & transportation cost recovery, 2) potential mix tailwinds as lower-margin electronics have continued to underperform higher-margin discretionary categories & beauty, 3) the rollout & ramp up of flow & sortation centers, 4) lower clearance levels & other efficiencies provided by leaner inventory levels. Importantly, we believe TGT's new opening price point brands & SKUs will be at similar GM to other SKUs in like categories.	A broad-based recovery in discretionary may have a mixed impact on GM given the lower-margin profile of electronics categories and the likely corresponding increase in brown box delivery, which is over-indexed to discretionary categories and lower margin than TGT's same-day service offerings. Shrink could also remain structurally higher, which could cap GM upside in 2024.
EBIT Margin	TGT's lean inventory position should support efficiencies across the business including with store labor. SG&A dollars should continue to benefit from TGT's $2-3bn cost savings program. TGT noted in 3Q that it had already realized "100s of millions of efficiency savings so far this year."	Wage / labor increases and deleverage from TGT's sales declines could offset benefits from the company's $2-3bn cost savings initiatives.
Competitive Landscape	Our latest pricing study in Dallas showed that TGT narrowed its pricing gap to WMT. This, combined with new private label brand launches focused on value & entry level price points (e.g. Figmint & Dealworthy) should support an improving value perception and help to drive traffic and share gains.	TGT comparable sales and comparable traffic have underperformed larger broadline retail peers including Walmart (WMT) and Costco (COST), which could reflect share loss from over-earning during covid and having a less favorable value perception.
Valuation	At 15x, TGT is trading below our target P/E ratio of 17-18x. It is also trading at a heightened discount to WMT, which is currently trading at 22.5x. TGT margins should see support as investors gain line of sight to a return to positive comp sales.	TGT is trading in-line with its 10-year historical P/E multiple despite comps that remain down (MSD%). Its discount to WMT is also justified as it has less opportunity to develop alternative profit streams given its lower relative scale of online assortment.

Price objective basis & risk

Target Corp. (TGT)

Our $160 PO is based on 17-18x our F2025E adjusted EPS of $9.15, which is near the midpoint of TGT's ten-year historical P/E range of roughly 11x-20x but warranted in our view, given discretionary peers lower overall P/E multiples offset by TGT's exposure less elastic consumables & essential categories.

Downside risks to our price objective are gross margin pressures from labor costs, investments, and the rapid growth of the lower-margin e-commerce channel as well as aggressive competition from competitors.

BofA ESGMeter Methodology:

ESGMeter is a proprietary metric based on quantitative analysis and fundamental analyst inputs that reflects our assessment of a company's Environmental, Social and Governance-related attributes. The ESGMeter is intended to indicate a company's likelihood of experiencing stronger financial stability (higher return on equity and lower earnings and price volatility) over the next three years relative to peer group. There are three ESGMeter levels - Low, Medium, and High - which indicate whether a company has attributes most likely to translate into superior financial stability (in the case of a High level) or weaker financial stability (in the case of a Low level) over the next three years relative to its peer group. A Medium level suggests that a company exhibits ESG characteristics that are likely associated with financial stability results in line with its peer group over the next three years. Full details of our methodology, financial stability definition and disclaimers are available at BofA ESGMeter methodology. ESGMeter is not indicative of a company's future stock price performance and is not an investment recommendation or rating. ESGMeter is independent of the BofA Global Research fundamental equity analyst's investment rating, volatility risk rating, income rating or price objective for that company.
