Clear pathway to margins & growth ahead; Raise PO to $83

Resuming Coverage: BUY | PO: 83.00 USD | Price: 79.27 USD

Strong finish to 2023, well positioned for 2024

Parsons (PSN) reported a quarter of impressive organic growth (34% Y/Y) with greater than 20% organic growth in both Federal Solutions (FS) and Critical Infrastructure (CI). Organic growth benefitted from the ramp up of new contract work an on-contract growth. As a result of the strong 2023, management increased the 2025 targets set forth at the investor day (see our note here, and comparison inside). Margin expansion has lagged expectations. Nevertheless, we see a pathway to stronger margins driven by de-risking and sunsetting lower-margin contracts at CI, margin-accretive M&A, and disciplined cost management. Additionally, the recently announced convertible offering de-risks the balance sheet and provides strong dry powder for future organic and inorganic opportunities. We reiterate our Buy rating and raise our PO to $83 from $70. See inside for details.

FS: strategic portfolio allows FS to outpace DoD budget

We continue to see PSN's FS portfolio as well positioned to benefit from key priority and high-growth areas included in the proposed FY2024 Defense Budget. While the proposed budget would increase defense spending 3% Y/Y, we anticipate FS will outpace this and grow in the mid- to high- single digits in 2024. This is primarily due to the segment's work in offensive cyber and critical defense systems.

CI: Middle East and IIJA to drive growth

PSN's CI segment reported another quarter of strong performance across all end markets and major geographies. The Middle East, particularly projects in Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates (UAE), continues to be a strong revenue contributor, growing 30% Y/Y. North American revenue grew 16%, and we anticipate it will continue to grow as funding from the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) is expected to reach peak levels in the 2027 timeframe. We look favorably on the long-term outlook of the segment given the 2027 IIJA revenue peak will be followed by the anticipated Middle East revenue peak in 2028-2030. While margins in the segment were pressured in the quarter, we note CI suffered from a $20mn net adjustment headwind, without which margins would have come in ~10.1%. See inside for more details.

The company is organized in two reporting segments: Federal Solutions and Critical Infrastructure. The company employs approx. 16,000 people globally..

Investment Rationale

PSN is well positioned to benefit from the Biden administration's priorities at both Federal Solutions (FS) and Critical Infrastructure (CI), given the emphasis on legacy system modernization and the US Infrastructure Bill. PSN's M&A strategy has allowed the company to unlock value and expand its customers, capabilities, and contracts. On a macro level, PSN is a beneficiary to a stronger award environment, increased global infrastructure spend, and environmental remediation efforts...

Margin expansion lags from CI adjustment headwind

While PSN reported impressive growth in the quarter, margin expansion lags expectations. Company adj. EBITDA margins in the quarter came in at 8.6%, below BofAe of 8.8% and consensus of 8.7%. However, we highlight that the company was impacted by a $20mn net adjustment headwind on two Critical Infrastructure programs. PSN recognized a $38mn favorable impact to 4Q EBITDA related to a rail and transit project. On a separate program, the company recognized a $58mn adjusted EBITDA charge as a result of supply chain challenges identified during the procurement of materials. Normalized adj. EBITDA margins for the quarter would have been 9.9%. Normalized adj. EBITDA margins for FY23 would have been 8.9%, above management's guide of 20-30bps of margin expansion a year.

Taking steps to rectify risky margins

Despite the headwind to reported margins in 4Q, we look favorably on the steps management is taking to de-risk the CI margin profile. The $58mn write down of material procurement stems from an initial contract quoted prior to the pandemic. Management highlighted that the company is no longer engaged in large contracts with a significant amount of material pass through. Additionally, the new work PSN is bidding on is trending towards double-digit margins. We believe these actions de-risk the company's margin profile and provide a pathway towards stronger margin expansion.

Raising medium term targets

We were particularly pleased to see management raise the company's 2025 goals set forth at the March 2023 investor day (read our takeaways here). Management now expects mid-single digit organic growth or better (vs. 3%-5% prior) on an increased revenue base. The company continues to expect 20-30bps of margin expansion per year (unchanged) and at least 100% FCF conversion (unchanged). Given outperformance throughout 2023, this guidance raise is unsurprising but does provide reassurance that continued robust performance is expected.

Beneficiary to strong awards environment

PSN benefitted from a strong awards environment with total contract awards increasing 13% Y/Y to over $1.2bn. This resulted in a trailing-twelve-month book to bill of 1.1x. PSN reported a backlog of $8.6bn (59% funded), up 5% Y/Y. As we mentioned last quarter, the company also has $14bn in deals that have been awarded but not yet booked (primarily option periods and unbooked ceiling value). We believe this helps derisk PSN's performance skyline amidst an uncertain budgetary environment. Key awards in the quarter include:

- Potential five-year $250mn single-award classified contract in support of the US Government. PSN Booked $50mn in 4Q23.
- $150mn single-award contract to serve as lead designer on a major infrastructure replacement project in the northeast United States. The entirety of the contract is expected to be booked in 1Q24.
- $80mn contract to provide environmental remediation of lead contaminated soil for a US customer. This contract represents new work and $73mn was booked in 4Q23.
- A prime position on a multiple-award ID/IQ potential $250mn contract for the US Army Corps of Engineers to provide environmental remediation work. This contract represents new work and funding stems from the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA).
- A prime position on a potential five-year $200mn multiple-award ID/IQ General Services Administration Public Building Service contract. This contract is new work for the company.

Strong labor and hiring supports future growth

PSN's strong performance on hiring and retention bolstered growth throughout the quarter. Retention has improved by over 1% Y/Y and the company remains above PwC industry benchmarks. Management highlighted that new classified and top-secret clearance wait-times have improved in recent years, benefitting the company as PSN continues to win an increasing share of classified work, particularly within the cybersecurity end-market.

Workforce largely in place to execute on $14bn of unbooked ceiling

Importantly, of the $14bn of unbooked contract value, ~50% is comprised of option years. As this represents a continuation of existing work, management highlighted that they largely already have the workforce in place to execute on that increase. The remaining ~50% is comprised of unbooked ceiling value. In general, the task orders PSN wins here represent new work and would be an area where potential additional labor is required. However, we believe PSN's history of robust hiring positions the company well to ultimately execute on these task orders if/when they are awarded.

$700mn Convertible offering to repurchase 2025 debt

Subsequent to the end of the quarter, PSN announced a $700mn (with an additional $100mn greenshoe option) convertible debt offering. Concurrent with the convertible notes, PSN is also engaging in a Capped Call Transaction to offset any potential dilution. The net proceeds from the debt offering will likely be approximately $683.7mn ($781.4mn if the greenshoe is exercised). PSN is planning to use the proceeds to retire ~71% of the company's $400mn outstanding convertible notes due in 2025. Including the premium required to recover the outstanding debt and the $77mn expected to be used to pay for the new hedge, PSN will be left with ~$115-120mn in extra cash. We note that this does not include any upside from recovering some of the premium through hedges and/or the greenshoe option.

As this debt is being issued at a higher rate than the existing convertible notes (2.625% vs. prior 0.25%), we expect to see a ~$20mn incremental annual interest expense. We now expect PSN to pay ~$50mn of interest expense in 2024. On an adjusted basis, we do not expect share count to be impacted in 2024.

Raising 2024e and outyear EPS

Strong 2023 performance and future growth opportunities are partially offset by higher interest expense. We are raising adj. EPS estimates in 2024 and the outyears. We raise our 2024e adj. EPS to $2.70 (vs. $2.60 prior), 2025e to $2.95 (vs. $2.90 prior), 2026e to $3.20 (vs. $3.15 prior).

Raising PO to $83 on strong opps at CI and FS

We reiterate our Buy rating and raise our PO to $83 from $70. We roll our valuation forward one year. Our PO of $83 is based on a SOTP valuation that factors in a 15x EV/EBITDA multiple on Federal Solutions (vs. 14x prior to account for the company's strategic portfolio and high-growth profile) and 19x EV/EBITDA on Critical Infrastructure (vs. 17x prior as the company focuses continues to benefit from higher margin, lower-risk, high-tech M&A).

Price objective basis & risk

Parsons Corporation (PSN)

Our PO of $83 is based on a SOTP valuation that factors in a 15x EV/EBITDA multiple on Federal Solutions (to account for the company's strategic portfolio and high-growth profile) and 19x EV/EBITDA on Critical Infrastructure (as the company focuses continues to benefit from higher margin, lower-risk, high-tech M&A).

Risks to the upside are a better than anticipated upturn in the federal budget, inexpensive and well-integrated M&A activity (beyond our current expectations) and unexpected capital return to shareholders in the form of buybacks or special dividends.

Risks to the downside are cuts to the Department of Defense budget vs. anticipated or a prolonged continuing resolution (CR), which could negatively impact our estimates. Should PSN run into any problems with integrating M&A, containing its costs or a heightened competitive environment there could be downside risk to our estimates.

BofA ESGMeter Methodology:

ESGMeter is a proprietary metric based on quantitative analysis and fundamental analyst inputs that reflects our assessment of a company's Environmental, Social and Governance-related attributes. The ESGMeter is intended to indicate a company's likelihood of experiencing stronger financial stability (higher return on equity and lower earnings and price volatility) over the next three years relative to peer group. There are three ESGMeter levels - Low, Medium, and High - which indicate whether a company has attributes most likely to translate into superior financial stability (in the case of a High level) or weaker financial stability (in the case of a Low level) over the next three years relative to its peer group. A Medium level suggests that a company exhibits ESG characteristics that are likely associated with financial stability results in line with its peer group over the next three years. Full details of our methodology, financial stability definition and disclaimers are available at BofA ESGMeter methodology. ESGMeter is not indicative of a company's future stock price performance and is not an investment recommendation or rating. ESGMeter is independent of the BofA Global Research fundamental equity analyst's investment rating, volatility risk rating, income rating or price objective for that company.
